

WTF Is Spelling - The Weaponisation of Language and the Hidden Codes We Speak

Words are spells. That's why they call it spelling.

We were taught to speak, to read, to write ? but not to question what any of it meant. Not really. We were handed a dictionary and told ?this is what it means.? But who decided that? And why?

Language is the oldest control system still in use. Long before digital surveillance, fiat money, or social contracts ? there were words. Words bind. Words instruct. Words deceive.

Casting Spells with Every Sentence

Spelling. Casting. Curse-ive writing.

Do you think it's a coincidence that the language of magic and the language of literacy overlap?

When you speak, you shape thought into sound ? vibration. That vibration carries intention.

And when a whole society repeats the same words, the same phrases, the same programming ? they're literally casting spells on themselves and others.

This isn't metaphor. It's physics, psychology, and spiritual law in action.

The Hidden Meaning of Common Words

Let's take one example: Education.

We're told it means ?to lead out,? from Latin educare ? how noble.

But some interpretations suggest otherwise:

- Edu = possibly derived from ?ed? (to eat/devour)
- Cation = sounds like ?cation,? a positively charged ion ? or even ?incantation?

Others go deeper: they suggest education is a ritual system that rewards obedience, ego, competition, and disconnection from Source.

Too far? Maybe. But the point is, we never asked. We trusted the spell.

Etymology Is a Decryption Tool

Etymology is the forgotten tool of the rebel mind. It doesn't just explain where words come from ? it reveals how we've been programmed.

More examples:

- Government = gubernare (to control) + mens (mind) ? mind control
- Nice = from Latin nescius, meaning ignorant
- Mortgage = mort (death) + gage (pledge) ? death pledge
- Weekend = weakening; the 'end' of your productive spiritual energy
- Understand = to stand under ? to submit
- Consent = con (with) + sentire (feel) ? but rephrased in law to mean you've agreed to jurisdiction

These aren't accidents. They're structures of belief coded into the way we speak.

Why It Matters

If you don't control your language, you don't control your thought.

If you don't control your thought, someone else does.

And if you speak their words, their way, in their system ?

you're casting their spells. On yourself. On your kids. On your reality.

WTF?

Your Move

Next time you speak, pause.

Ask:

- Who wrote this phrase into my mind?

- What spell am I casting?
- What meaning lies beneath the surface?

Break the spell.

Speak with intention.

Learn the true names of things ? and reclaim the power of your voice.
